SENSORY GARDEN

Save up to 55% of water when compared to turfgrass.

THYMUS X CYPRICORUS 'AUREUS'
LEMON THYME

ANACARDIACEAE X 'AMBER VELVET'
ORANGE KANGAROO PAW

LAVANDULA STONCHAS 'CITRO QUART'
SPANISH LAVENDER

This area of the garden demonstrates the use of a variety of plants that not only appeal to the visual senses, but to senses of touch, smell, and taste. Aromatic plants used in food such as Sage, Lavender, Rosemary, and Thyme put on shows of purple flowers, but if their leaves are rubbed between your fingers, they will release their fragrant scents. Thyme is a great low growing groundcover, especially along a pathway where its fragrance is released as your feet brush by. Water conscious cooks will enjoy knowing that they can grow their own herbs while also saving water. Benefit: less water, more flavor.
