Introduction

Larimer OEM has adopted the motto of “Doing the Most Good for Those that Need it Most” to create an emergency management program that meets the needs of those who may be disproportionately impacted by disasters in Larimer County. Each member of our community, regardless of background, socioeconomic status, culture, language, or ethnicity must have equitable access to needed resources throughout the entire duration of the disaster cycle - from preparedness through recovery. There is a delicate, but intricate interconnection between the institutional system of a community, including the Emergency Management Agency, and the individual community members they serve. While it is important to recognize that every individual in a community has a responsibility for their own preparedness planning, it is also important to stress that if the system creates barriers that impact one’s accessibility to resources or information to ensure an individual’s ability to be prepared, the system will fail.

LCOEM has a responsibility to build sustainable, resilient, and prepared communities better equipped to overcome the hazards they face by trying to minimize barriers where feasible. This Plan was developed to outline activities, partnerships, and action items required to ensure a more equitable and inclusive emergency management program that better serves the entirety of Larimer County.

Purpose of this Plan

This plan is created with the intent of outlining goals, roles, and responsibilities for LCOEM and its respective partners for addressing equity and inclusion in programmatic efforts for the next 3 - 5 years. This plan addresses five (5) key areas of focus to address gaps in inclusive efforts along with subsequent initiatives and action items to achieve the overall goals of the focus areas.

Background

“Because we have not experienced an equitable world, the goal we are aiming for is harder to describe or imagine. It becomes much more important to have additional voices and perspectives to describe the small pieces of the equity puzzle that must be included, even if it’s hard to know how they all come to form one big picture.”

- Aimee Voth Siebert, Disaster Behavioral Health and Inclusion Program Manager, Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment

Historically, many members of our community have been marginalized based on barriers to equal access of opportunity. It is this marginalization that has resulted in additional trauma when a disaster impacts a community. The majority of deaths that have occurred in recent disasters have been individuals impacted by access and functional needs; this includes 75% of the deaths in Hurricane Katrina, and 70% of the deaths that occurred during the Paradise Fire in 2017.

Additionally, lack of cultural understanding or awareness by emergency responders and public safety personnel and agencies has led to the increased trauma, or failure of action in critical situations, for people experiencing a disaster. For example, failure to acknowledge important cultural or religious values in a sheltering situation has resulted in many forgoing the option of a shelter. Additionally, fear surrounding persons of authority has resulted in many refusing to evacuate their homes despite being in imminent danger.

Disregarding an individual’s cultural need or concern and not considering it to be of value or important in emergency operations can not only lead to a significant lack of trust between community members and the institution that serves them, but can also result in increased trauma, or risk of injury and/or death in an emergency or disaster situation. It is for this reason that Larimer County Office of Emergency Management seeks to expand its capacity for inclusion, diversity, equity, and accessibility in its programmatic efforts.

Emergency Management Scope

The mission of the Larimer County Office of Emergency Management is to create sustainable communities and to protect life and property by empowering all who live, work, and visit the County to prevent, mitigate, prepare for, respond to, and recover from all types of emergencies and disasters.

The Office of Emergency Management holds the responsibility for meeting the needs of the community in all phases of disaster. This means that LCOEM has a responsibility, to the extent possible, to minimize barriers and make it easier to access resources an individual may require, outside of their own individual preparedness. To achieve these goals and to better serve the community, LCOEM is highly dependent upon partnerships and collaboration with other agencies and community organizations that also work with marginalized members of our community. The importance of development of partnerships in this effort is emphasized and addressed multiple times throughout the entirety of this document.

Definitions

To ensure equal understanding among all parties involved in this plan, the following definitions are utilized throughout the document.

Accessibility: The design, construction, development and maintenance of facilities, information and communication technology, programs and services so that all people, including people with disabilities, can fully and independently use them².

Access and Functional Needs: The resources or accommodations that must be in place to ensure inclusive and equitable ability to sustain life and agency for all in a disaster.

Cultural Humility: The process of learning the needs of culturally diverse groups. Cultural humility focuses on the identification of needs within culturally diverse groups³.

Diversity: The many ways that people differ, including the variation of social and cultural identities as well as race, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, age, disability, immigration status, color, ethnicity, national origin, ancestry, socioeconomic status, income, neighborhood of residence, rural or urban residence, spoken language, or other personal characteristics among our community members⁴.

Emergency Management: The discipline of dealing with and avoiding risks, particularly those that have catastrophic consequences for communities, regions, or entire countries. It is the dynamic process of preparing for, mitigating against, responding to and recovering from an emergency⁵.

Equity: Ensuring fair treatment, equality of opportunity, and fairness in access to information and resources for all.

Inclusion: Building a culture of belonging in which any individual or group can feel welcomed, respected, supported, and valued to participate fully.

Marginalized Community: A group that is confined to the lower or peripheral edge of society. Such a group is denied involvement in mainstream economic, political, cultural, and social activities. Marginalization or social exclusion deprives a group of its rightful share of reach to productive resources and ways to utilize its maximum potential for prosperity. It’s directed at groups who are seen to differ from perceived norms⁶.

Person with a Disability: The legal definition of a person with a disability is a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities⁷. While a social model of disability suggests that a disability is not a result of an impairment, but rather the result of a non-supportive environment.

Resilience: The ability of communities to rebound, positively adapt to, or thrive amidst changing conditions or challenges— including human cause and natural disasters—and to maintain quality of life, healthy growth, durable systems, economic vitality, and conservation of resources for present and future generations⁸.

Vulnerable: those communities that may be more susceptible to a risk or hazard, such as high vulnerability to wildfires or floods based upon geography, topography, hydrology, and weather.

Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Accessibility (IDEA)

As an expansion from the previous LCOEM Equity & Inclusion Plan, this update has added diversity and accessibility. The terms Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, and Accessibility (IDEA) are referred to throughout the entirety of this document. State and local governments must comply with Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) in all programs, services, and activities. Accommodation and modification are tools to enable accessibility. Accommodations have specific individuals in mind and are tailored accordingly.

In addition to the goals and objectives outlined in this plan, LCOEM will work to improve inclusion, diversity, equity, and accessibility of emergency management resources and information by:

- Planning with community members and not for them in plans and initiatives.
• Identifying and removing barriers to resources and information and incorporating feedback throughout the process.
• Providing resources and information that are easy for the community to access.
• Keep asking who’s not that at the table that needs to be during planning meetings.
• Practice humility and intentionality when working with community members. Being receptive to productive feedback on how to improve programs.

Practices that are inclusive, equitable, accessible and demonstrate diversity in the process are active in nature and are aligned with the concept of planning with members of our community versus planning for them.

Access and Functional Needs

Another term we use in this plan is Access and Functional Needs (AFN). This term refers to individuals who need access to resources to function during an emergency. This term refers to the resources or accommodations that must be in place to ensure inclusive and equitable ability to sustain life and agency for all in a disaster and may take action in the following ways:

• an individual’s plan to escape to [safety] and/or from an emergency or disaster,
• access to either refuge and/or safety in an emergency or disaster,
• other assistance, accommodations, or modifications in an emergency or disaster through pre-planning by emergency management, first response agencies, and other stakeholders,
• accommodations in sheltering, or other situations from notification and evacuation, to sheltering, to return to pre-disaster level of independence.

It is important to acknowledge that almost everyone experiences an access or functional need at any given point in their life. What can be considered an access or functional need can be best understood using the C-MIST Framework. The C-MIST Framework is an acronym that defines at-risk individuals and is used to address a broad set of common access and functional needs irrespective of specific diagnoses, status, or labels (such as pregnant or elderly). Examples of instances in which a person could be considered in need of resources due to an access or functional need include:

C - Communication: During an emergency, people with communications needs may not be able to hear announcements, see signs, understand messages, or verbalize their concerns. These are people who have limited or no ability to speak, see, hear, or understand.

M - Maintain Health: People may require assistance in managing activities of daily living such as eating, dressing, grooming, transferring and going to the toilet. It includes managing chronic, terminal, or contagious health (such as ongoing treatment and administration of medications, IV therapy, catheters, tube feeding, dialysis, oxygen, operating life sustaining equipment, etc.). Early identification of these needs and intervention can avoid decline of health.

I - Independence: People who are able to function independently by having assistive devices and/or equipment. Items consist of mobility aids (wheelchairs, walkers, canes, crutches, etc.), communication aids, medical equipment (catheters, oxygen, syringes, medications, etc.), and service animals. Individuals may be separated from their assistive equipment and/or animals in an emergency. Those at risk whose needs are recognized and restored early are able to maintain their independence and manage in mass shelters. Effectively meeting their functional needs prevents secondary complications.

S - Safety, Support Services, Self-Determination: Some people require safety and support services including those who have psychiatric conditions (such as dementia, Alzheimer’s disease, Schizophrenia, depression, or severe mental illness), addiction problems, brain injury, or become anxious due to transfer trauma. During an emergency some people with mental illness may be able to function well while others require a more protected and supervised setting.

T - Transportation: Emergency response requires mobility, and this category includes people who are unable to drive because of disability, age, temporary injury, poverty, addiction, legal restriction, or have no access to a vehicle. Wheelchair accessible transportation may be necessary. Pre-planning evacuation needs helps prevent chaos during an emergency and many people can function independently once evacuated to safety.

Through use of the C-MIST Framework, LCOEM can better identify and anticipate needs and create a more robust planning effort proactively.
Personal Responsibility

Every member of the community has a personal responsibility for their own safety and security. This includes adequate planning and preparedness for the hazards and risks within each specific community. LCOEM is responsible for providing services and resources, as available, to all members of our community, but can only be successful with the help of every prepared individual. Self-reliance is a primary component in training and education programs in Larimer County to give community members the tools to help themselves and others in the event of a disaster. The more that LCOEM can provide these services with equity and inclusion in mind, the better prepared and able our communities will be to move through disasters and ultimately thrive following these events.

Guiding Principles

LCOEM utilizes the principles outlined by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in our programmatic efforts to improve equity and inclusion in disaster management. The NAACP’s Principles on Equity in Emergency Management\(^\text{12}\) are as follows:

1. Ensure that principles of equity, justice, inclusion, transparency, and accountability govern all aspects of emergency management.
2. Measures must be taken to ensure that human rights and civil protections are safeguarded and prioritized during times of disaster, including using international human rights law to shape policy on the federal, state, and local levels.
3. People have a right to resources required to create productive, dignified, and ecologically sustainable livelihoods. Emergency Management should uphold people’s rights to land, clean water, food, and other resources needed to survive and live well.
4. All phases of emergency management must be built on principles of deep democracy, participatory decision-making, and self-governance.
5. Measures to mitigate and prevent emergencies and disasters must be prioritized even while all other phases of the emergency management continuum are taken seriously and adequately funded.
6. Climate justice demands doing everything possible to prevent climate disasters from happening. This includes incorporating climate change projections into risk assessments and mitigation.
7. Emergency management practices should embody a spirit of care, cooperation, and collectivism among peoples and communities. This is embodied by practices such as knowledge and resource sharing and mutual aid.
8. Community leadership should inform every aspect of the emergency management continuum, including community-designed planning, response, and recovery.

These principles outline the core values from which LCOEM will operate and drive programmatic decisions. These principles are utilized to identify future goals and priority areas.

Larimer OEM Work to Date

Efforts to increase inclusion, diversity, equity, and accessibility have been initiated within LCOEM prior to the development of this document. This section outlines work to date to provide a better understanding of the prior efforts that led to the current strategic initiatives outlined later in this document.

Larimer Connects Program

- In 2017, LCOEM implemented the Larimer Connects Program. This program was developed based on extensive foundational research that identified social capital as the primary indicator of a resilient community. The Larimer Connects Program seeks to build resilient and sustainable communities through the encouragement and subsequent development of strong social ties, trust between community members and institutions, and through the building of networks in and between communities. Equity and Inclusion will be pillars of this program moving forward, as these principles align with the program’s mission to address resilience at the most grassroots, individual level.

Community Assessment Partnership with Colorado State University

- In 2018, LCOEM worked with two Master of Public Health (MPH) students from Colorado State University to conduct community assessments identifying needs and gaps regarding cultural equity. Additionally, an assessment of the current LCOEM program was conducted to determine where improvements and priority areas could be established for future initiatives regarding equity and inclusion in emergency management. During this time, community leaders and representatives of organizations working with marginalized groups in Larimer County were identified and interviewed as part of the community needs assessment.

- Both students focused on three marginalized communities to conduct their initial assessment including the Latinx community, the unhoused population, and the aging/elderly community. Both developed reports and logic models outlining strategies for engaging with these communities, priority areas, and methods in which to increase cultural intelligence for LCOEM. These reports were utilized to identify the action items for the previous version of this strategic plan.

- Part of this work also resulted in the “Cultural Competency during Emergency Events Checklist” that is now incorporated into Larimer County’s Comprehensive Emergency Management Plan (CEMP) to provide reminders and important tasks that should be acted upon when working with marginalized groups during disaster.

Larimer Emergency Management Summits

- In 2018, LCOEM hosted two summits to engage with and receive feedback and guidance from a stakeholder group comprised of community leaders, community advocacy organizations, experts, and community representatives.

- In August 2018, LCOEM hosted the Larimer OEM Cultural Connections Summit. This summit was focused on identifying gaps in LCOEM programs around cultural inclusion and understanding. This Summit initiated conversations and assisted in building relationships to further develop equity and inclusion planning into the LCOEM program. Throughout the year, LCOEM provided progress reports to this group on activities and actions as a result of this summit.

- In September of 2019, Larimer OEM hosted the Equity and Inclusion in Emergency Management Summit. This summit reconvened many of the same stakeholders as the previous summit, however the intent of this summit was to expand LCOEM’s efforts beyond just cultural comprehension to include all instances of access and functional needs in our population as a whole. Therefore, the Summit had several new participants, and the input from this summit was utilized to identify the key areas for strategic action as outlined in this plan.

Larimer Recovery Collaborative, Community Support & Equity Advisory Board

- In 2020, LCOEM created the Larimer Recovery Collaborative Community Support & Equity Advisory Board (CS & EAB) to help guide equitable recovery efforts for both the COVID-19 Pandemic and the Cameron Peak Fire. This Community Support & Equity Advisory Board comprised of non-profit leaders, non-government, and government partners, advised recovery efforts on identification of equity needs and concerns as it pertained to communication and engagement.

- In March 2021, LCOEM hired a bilingual COVID-19 Larimer Recovery Collaborative Communications & Engagement Coordinator on a two-year grant funded position to communicate recovery resources to the public in English and Spanish and create relationships to identify needs in the community to decision makers to guide recovery efforts.

- As part of the COVID-19 Recovery, LCOEM led a regional outreach to hear needs from the community and help direct where federal recovery funds should be allocated to help the community. The regional outreach included a unified approach to hear from the community and target efforts towards the communities that we do not typically hear from and that were disproportionately impacted by COVID-19. It also included the creation of an interactive dashboard to display the public participation.

A team of County and municipal communications professionals executed the survey in English and Spanish, in-person at outreach events throughout the County. Specialized Spanish Community Conversations with Commissioners for Spanish-speaking communities as well as a Community Conversation with Commissioners for the Youth were performed. Additionally, online surveys were shared throughout the Larimer County cross-county communications team, Public Health & Environment, Human Services, and Economic & Workforce Development. Municipal communications professionals, and community organizations also promoted the survey. Populations targeted for the outreach were the Spanish-speaking community, BIPOC, LGBTQ+, youth, and aging adults.

The impact of this COVID-19 Recovery Outreach Dashboard resulted in a valuable resource for jurisdictions to continue the conversation and engagement with local communities. Larimer County departments and leadership were better able to understand the community’s impacts from COVID-19 to guide recovery priorities. Data distinguished specific factors between Spanish-speaking communities and English responses. Overall, the cross-sector and multi-jurisdictional collaboration and the development of relationships with community organizations assisted in ensuring COVID-19 funding served the community equitably.

- In October 2021, LCOEM assisted in the development of the Bylaws for the Larimer County Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Advisory Board to advise the Board of County Commissioners, and County departments as guided by strategic planning put forth by the Board of Commissioners and the advisory board, in order to ensure that equity, diversity, and inclusion are central in the ways the County structures services, infrastructure, governance, and management of resources.

Larimer OEM, Community Resilience Assessment

- In 2022, LCOEM conducted a baseline Community Resilience Assessment to gauge the level of community resilience in Larimer County. From the survey responses Larimer OEM recognized themes to advance social connectivity and community preparedness for increased resilience and disaster outcomes. In that survey, 66% of respondents indicated that they do not believe there are adequate systems in place for people with disabilities or those who are unable to self-evacuate in an emergency. Because of this data, LCOEM has re-focused our efforts on building relationships with community organizations that serve people with disabilities to be able to improve accessibility of emergency information and resources. LCOEM will conduct the Community Resilience Assessment yearly to inform programs and continue to improve our efforts to serve the Larimer community.

- In 2023, LCOEM hired an Inclusion & Engagement Emergency Management Coordinator to provide bilingual emergency-related public information for Larimer County and strengthen relationships with under-served communities in Larimer County.

- In 2023, LCOEM worked with an intern from Colorado State University working on their master’s in public health concentrating on health disparities to conduct research and created a report on the work being done around Larimer County to improve health and preparedness outcomes. The report “Cultural Responsiveness within Larimer County Office of Emergency Management” was used to develop the initiatives in this strategic plan and can be found at the end of this strategic plan.
